Basic Duties and Responsibilities: Assists the Office Director in leading a growing office of government and contractor personnel with responsibility for geospatial intelligence analysis and production on worldwide Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation (RDT&E), production and counterproliferation of weapons of mass destruction and their delivery means, advanced conventional weapons systems, and the global transfer of those systems. In executing this multifaceted mission, maintains close ties with the National Counterproliferation Center and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) Country Mission Managers in supporting the defense, intelligence, and policy communities and in responding to Congressional requests. Works collaboratively with the National Geospatial-Intelligence Warning Center, other government agencies, and the Commands to address time dominant critical mission requirements and provide accurate and relevant geospatial and imagery analysis. Understands and advances the role of geospatial intelligence analysis in meeting National Security Presidential Directives 17 and 20. Oversees day-to-day management of Office personnel and resources with emphasis on developing a relatively junior workforce, planning and executing effective resource acquisition strategies, and expanding NGA's counterproliferation geospatial data program. Incorporates innovative technologies and tools and leverages new systems in ensuring the Office is in the forefront of applying the latest capabilities. Works cooperatively with other functional and regional offices in the Analysis and Production Directorate (P) and across the Agency to prioritize and meet competing demands, adhering to and promulgating NGA's mission, vision, and core values as defined in NGA's Strategic Intent. Represents the Office within the P Directorate, with other NGA Directorates, and external to the Agency.

Qualification Requirements: Eligibility for this executive level position will be based upon a clear demonstration that the applicant has experience of the scope and quality sufficient to effectively carry out the assignments of the position. The successful applicants will be distinguished from other applicants by a review of the following Executive Core Qualifications (ECQs) and Technical Qualifications. Failure to meet a Qualification requirement will disqualify an applicant. Use an Activities/Context/Outcome Approach when describing your ECQs and keep in mind that reviewers will be looking for specific job-related activities and they will be interested in the context and outcomes of these activities. First, identify specific job-related activities (e.g., leadership, planning, acquiring a diverse workforce, budgeting) in which you participated and describe your actions. Next describe the context or environment within which you performed these actions. Mention other individuals or groups involved in the activity (e.g., client groups, members of Congress, individuals in other organizations). Lastly, state the outcomes of your actions. These indicate the quality and effectiveness of your performance and demonstrate your ability to achieve results, a key requirement of executive positions. Start your qualification statements with a brief summary of your managerial experience before individually addressing each of the five ECQs. Because (6) Fundamental Competencies are cross-cutting, they should be addressed over the course of the applicants ECQ narrative. It is not necessary to address them directly as long as the narrative, in its totality, shows mastery of these competencies on the whole.
